

ABSTRACT

A system delivers radiation to a substrate with a radiation source to generate radiation having a source intensity distribution pattern; and a redistribution radiation guide adapted to receive the radiation from the radiation source and to direct the radiation from one region to different regions on the substrate so that the substrate intensity distribution pattern is different from the source pattern.

5